MUSEUM HOLDS OLD RECORD & BOOK SALE

Local historians are planning their second book sale this Saturday to raise funds for the town's Museum.

Following on from an inaugural sale last year, Bognor Regis Local History Society are hoping to repeat the success, and generate further funds towards maintaining the West Street attraction.

Curator Chris Burstow explained "We are given a considerable number of books each year to add to our already extensive collection on Bognor and the surrounding area. However, many are duplicates or don't really fit in with our collection, so this will be a great opportunity for keen local collectors to acquire some out-of-print editions. Many relate to Sussex, family and general history and this year there will be quite a few old records too including some 78s. Whilst it is nice to have a few to play on our old record players, we now have more than we need!"

The sale is being held this Saturday 21 May 10am-2pm at the Museum in West Street.

The Museum also now has a new website. Whilst much of the content is familiar, it's new fresh look is more appealing which should attract more visitors to the free indoor attraction. www.bognor-museum.org.
